SENSATIONAL SARAH

Anyone who attended the Ruth Tarvydas parade during Perth Fashion Festival will remember Sarah Chuot, the statuesque Sudanese beauty who wowed audiences in a short, sparkling silver version of the designer's headline-making Miss Universe Australia dress. This 178cm 20-year-old mother, model and accounting student was born in Ethiopia and grew up in war-ravaged Sudan. After losing her father at the age of two, Chuot fled with her family to a Kenyan refugee camp before arriving in Australia at 16. Now Chuot mentors young Sudanese girls in Perth, teaching them self-confidence and modelling skills. Chuot is hosting a fundraising fashion parade at 5pm this Friday at the Morley Recreation Centre (tickets $30). To book or find out more, email jacqui@fashionwa.com

FASHION AT BISTRO FELIX

Subiaco dining favourite Bistro Felix has recently started monthly Couture Fridays, where you can enjoy a free fashion parade during your lunchtime meal. This Friday's fashion is courtesy of FashionWA.com, the online website devoted to promoting WA designers. The parades happen at 1.30pm and 2.30pm and feature fashion from Joveeba, Paper Skye and Story by Tang. Inquiries to 9388 3077.

NEW SEASON DROPS

Some of this planet's best labels are now available to buy right here in Perth. Dilettante recently received new pieces from Australian design star Dion Lee, whose spring-summer collection had the normally steely-faced fashion scribes at Australian Fashion Week in tears of joy. The boutique is also carrying beautiful new pieces from Melbourne labels Friedrich Gray and Claude Maus. Over at Slaughterblouse in Mt Lawley you can find new season pieces by hot-to-trot British designers Christopher Kane and Markus Lupfer, while Wasteland on King Street is the place to go for new Dries Van Noten, Raf by Raf Simons and Zambesi.

LOVELY LUSH

Next time you're in the city be sure to pop into "cosmetics grocer" Lush, which has recently opened at Shop 19, Plaza Arcade. We love their handmade, natural soaps, skincare and body washes, all made from fresh fruit, vegetables, plant butters and Australian essential oils. Lush uses Fair Trade ingredients where possible and uses eco-friendly packaging. Our favourite? The Ocean Salt face and body scrub, $20.95/120g.

THREE BEARS

If your style is free and easy beach-to-bar chic, it's worth checking out new Wembley boutique Three Bears, which specialises in casual LA wear including True Religion jeans and Ed Hardy T-shirts. They also stock a unique bikini label called Beach Bunny. "Their bikinis are absolutely incredible — the detail, intricacy and fabrics are heavenly," says store co-owner Jennifer Rule. To get your dose of beach-friendly gear, go to 339 Cambridge Street, Wembley.
